May 25, 2018

This week has been full of many exciting and interesting events. We kicked off our week with a musical production of "Let Freedom Sing!" I was extremely proud of our students! They performed beautifully! We also received a wonderful surprise from my brother in law in Afghanistan. He sent our class a flag as a thank you for the letters we send off in November.

Have a wonderful three day weekend!

Reading/Language Arts: In Reading we finished up our novel study on My Life as a Book, and read the classic story of "Rikki Tikki Tavi".

In Language Arts, we wrapped up our unit on verbs.

Math: We wrapped up chapter 8. Chapter 9 will focus on addition and subtraction of fractions with like denominators, and different denominators.

Social Studies: In Social Studies, learned about the Central Valley Project and rain shadow.

Science: In Science, our jet toy teams have been testing 3 different tubes with and without weights to see how these things impact the chassis' performance.
